

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an electronic control unit having two computers, the first computer, which is an engine control microcomputer, performs multiple diagnoses and sends data regarding the diagnoses to the second computer, which is a throttle control microcomputer. The data includes a transmission ID, a calculated value and a reference value. The throttle control microcomputer directly monitors completion of the diagnoses based on the data.